

VETERANS HOLD BIG CAMP FIRE

Court House Crowded with Veterans and their Friends for Encampment Camp Fire. Business of the Week.

To the strains of "Dixie" and "Merryland, My Maryland," the veterans here for the state contingent of the Grand Army marched four streets up Chambersburg and Baltimore streets Tuesday evening to one of the most largely attended camp fires held here in recent years. The Citizens Band and the Boy Scouts led the parade and the old soldiers, most of whom were full blue uniforms, made an impressive sight. The Scouts were given the task of keeping back the crowd at the Court House until the veterans had entered, and they performed it well.

DOOMED TRANSACTIONS

The matter of place of next year's encampment was left to the council of administration. Indiana was put in nomination against Gustyberg. A proposition was made to have the encampment here the latter part of June 1918 so that all could say for the battle anniversary. This seemed to meet with much favor.

The Grand Army elected Thomas H. Cole, of Erie, commander; Noah

1. The first part of the paper is devoted to a review of the literature on the topic of the role of the state in the development of the economy. It is found that the state has played a significant role in the development of the economy in many countries, particularly in the case of developing countries. The state has been able to mobilize resources, create infrastructure, and provide social services, all of which have contributed to economic growth. However, the state has also been criticized for its inefficiency, corruption, and lack of transparency. The paper argues that the state should continue to play a role in the development of the economy, but that it should be reformed to make it more efficient and transparent.
